ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This is the twenty-second of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois, and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties of the United States. The project, specializing in aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as The American Aerial County History Series. Each of the volumes is being written by John Drury, author of Historic Midwest Houses, Midwest Heritage, Old Illinois Houses, etc.

In the preparation of this work on Mercer County, Illinois, the writer and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of the city of Aledo and the county of Mercer, Illinois. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgment to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof-reading assistance.

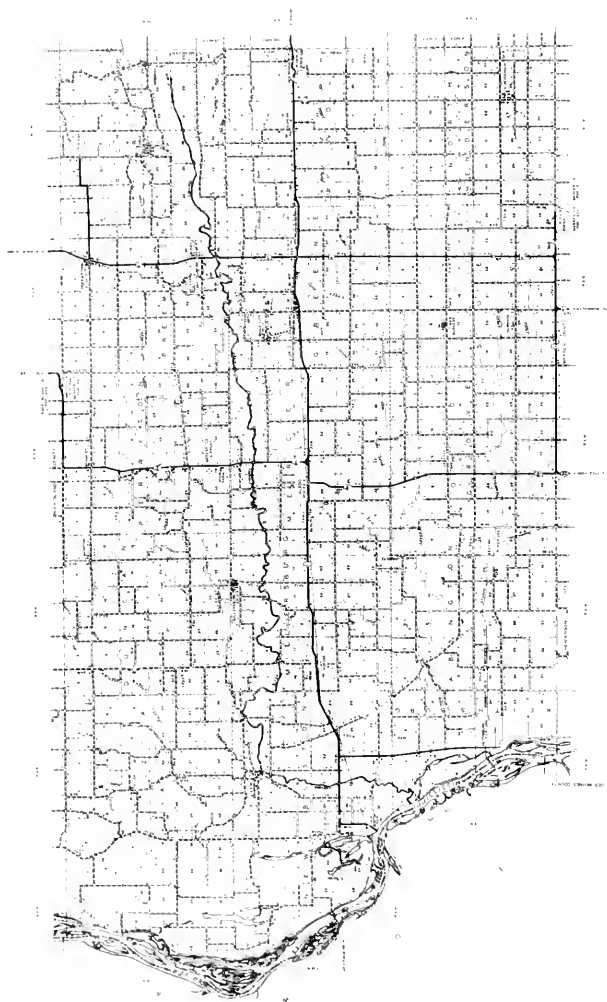

Sources used by the author in preparing this volume were: History of Mercer and Henderson Counties, Illinois, published by H. H. Hill and Company, Chicago, 1882; Illinois: A Descriptive and Historical Guide, The American Guide Series (A. C. STORY OF MERCER COUNTY, ILLINOIS

Located on the Mississippi River in north central Illinois, its fertile farms and widespread pastures forming a sharp contrast to the smoky Quad Cities metropolitan area just beyond, Mercer County is today one of the leading agricultural and cattle counties of the Prairie State. In 1949 the value of all of its farm products (crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products) was $16,862,000. Of that total, $13,464,000 was the value of its cattle and calves of all ages, which numbered 41,468 head.

Aside from its economic standing, Mercer County is of interest for its old Mississippi River town of New Boston, a community that served as the county's first seat of justice and that was surveyed by young Abraham Lincoln. Among former Mercer County residents today are two distinguished American women artists, Gertrude Abercrombie and Doris Lee. Paintings by both have been exhibited in leading public and private galleries of New York, Chicago and other cities.

MARQUETTE AND JOLLIET

First white men to view the land that today is Mercer County were those two great French explorers, Father Marquette and Louis Jolliet. On their historic journey down the Mississippi River in 1673, they paddled their canoes past the high banks where later the town of New Boston was built. After traveling as far as the mouth of the Arkansas River, they returned to Quebec by way of the Illinois River and the Great Lakes and claimed practically all of inland America for the King of France. Thus the vast Upper Mississippi Valley became a colony called New France.

One hundred years later, after the close of the French and Indian Wars, this great wilderness domain came into the possession of the victorious British. But by that time the thirteen colonies on the Atlantic seaboard had been long established. Then occurred the American Revolution of 1775-1783. After George Rogers Clark and his handful of American backwoodsmen captured key British military posts in what later became Illinois and Indiana, the new American flag was raised for the first time over what is now the Midwest.

There followed the formation of the Northwest Territory (northwest of Virginia), out of which were subsequently carved the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota. When the Territory of Illinois was created in 1809, future Mercer County lay in St. Clair County, which embraced almost all of upper Illinois. When a new county, Madison, was organized in 1812, it included what is now Mercer.

As more and more settlers arrived after Illinois became a state in 1818, new counties were formed at frequent intervals. It was in 1821 that Pike County was established and within its original boundaries were such early settlements as Peoria, Rock Island and Chicago. It was greatly reduced in size, however, after Mercer and ten other counties were set up in 1825. At that time, Mercer County embraced all of the south portion of what is now Rock Island County. But Mercer was reduced to its present size when Rock Island County was formed in 1831.

FIRST SETTLERS

Although Mercer County was set up by act of the Illinois state legislature in 1825, it remained uninhabited and unorganized for some ten years afterwards. All during this time it was just a prairie region attached to various older counties, among them Schuyler, Peoria and Warren. By 1835, however, enough settlers had come to Mercer to warrant civil organization of the county for the first time.

Recorded as the first permanent white settlers of Mercer County are William Dennison and his son, John W. They arrived in 1827 and settled in what the Indians then called "Upper Yellow Banks"—afterwards to become the site of New Boston. Lower down on the Mississippi River was "Lower Yellow Banks"—which now is Otquawka (in Henderson County).

What brought William Dennison and his son to the region in the first place was a plentiful supply of trees, especially at the mouth of the Edwards River. The elder Dennison had decided to go into the business of supplying logs for Mississippi River steamboats, which at that early day were wood-burning vessels. The first steamboats appeared on the river about 1823, and by the time William Dennison set up his "fueling station" just below the future site of New Boston there was considerable steamer traffic on the Father of Waters.

Soon enough, William Dennison's business became so flourishing that he needed additional help. There followed the arrival here of his other sons—Erastus, James, Joseph, Ezra, Elmer and Newton. All came from Pennsylvania, original home of the family. With the assistance of these sturdy sons, William Dennison now had no difficulty in supplying passing steamboats with logs at the rate of $3.00 a cord.

Incidentally, it was William Dennison's land on which New Boston was later built. Also, the first white child born in Mercer County was H. W. Dennison, who came into this world in 1832 and who was a son of John W. Dennison. An additional interesting fact about this "first family" of the county is that Erastus Dennison was later (1835) elected one of the first three commissioners of the county, and it was in an hotel he built at Millersburg that the county commissioners held their earliest business sessions.

CHIEF BLACK HAWK

When, in 1827, William Dennison and his sons started the business of "wooding" steamboats on the river, they entered an area that had long been a favorite fishing and hunting place of the Sacs and Foxes, early Indian tribes of the region. Instead of antagonizing the Indians here, however, the Dennisons established friendly relations with them, a situation which was helped by the fact that William Dennison could speak the Indian language.

One who frequently appeared here at the Upper Yellow Banks and who was on good terms with the Dennisons was the celebrated Indian headman, Chief Black Hawk. He was born and reared in an Indian village at the mouth of the Rock River, just above the site of future Mercer County, and on attaining his majority became chief of the Sauk and Fox tribes of Illinois and Wisconsin. It was his attempt to defend this region against encroachment by white settlers that brought on the Black Hawk War of 1832.

Before the outbreak of that conflict, Chief Black Hawk, we are told, was a frequent and welcomed visitor at the Dennison settlement on the Mississippi River. On one occasion, the chief stood guard at the settlement while hundreds of his followers passed up the river, remaining until the last Indian had gone out of sight.

BLACK-HAWK WAR OF 1832

Although Mercer County had supplied its share of militiamen in the Black Hawk War of 1832, it was not the scene of any battles or skirmishes in that conflict. Nonetheless, the county's early settlers were frightened away from their isolated log cabin homes when hostilities broke out. At first, the Dennisons stoutly refused to flee, but later removed their wives and children to a safe place at Pence's Fort, where Oquawka now stands.

Just before the outbreak of the conflict, a great Indian council of war was held at Upper Yellow Banks and William Dennison was allowed to be present. Chief Black Hawk, the "war chief," came down from his headquarters on the Rock River, and Chief Keokuk, the "peace chief," arrived on the Iowa River, which here empties into the Mississippi. The war council was attended by some 3,000 followers of the two Indian leaders.

Describing the council meeting afterwards, William Dennison said that Chief Keokuk, a large, impressive individual who dressed like a white man, pleaded for peace, saying that a war with the whites would be hopeless. On the other hand, Chief Black Hawk, who was heavy-set, untidy and dressed in the blanket regalia of his race, insisted on an immediate declaration of war against the whites, adding that they had violated earlier treaties. As almost all of us know, the Black Hawk War of 1832 followed this great Indian council meeting on the site of where New Boston was later built.

"DECENTLY MURDERED"

Before this war council was held, news was brought to William Dennison by his many Indian friends that Chief Black Hawk was planning a last stand fight against the whites. The Indians urged Dennison and his sons to gather up their families and flee to a safe place. But William Dennison refused to move, feeling that Chief Black Hawk, his friend, would see to it that neither he, nor any member of his family, would be harmed.

When Dennison's dark-skinned friends explained that Chief Black Hawk might not be able to control all of his followers, that some of them might attack the Dennison settlement and stage a horrible massacre, the founder of the settlement still refused to budge. At this point, one especially friendly old Indian stepped up, and, in effect, said: "Well, if you insist on staying, I will be glad to murder you in a decent fashion; in a way that won't be painful and horrible."

The story goes on to say that William Dennison and his sons thereupon decided to move their wives and children to Pence's Fort lower down on the Mississippi. Before they moved, however, the Indians told them to leave all of their household goods in their respective cabins.

After the Dennison families departed, the Indians went about marking the cabins with native signs or symbols indicating that the dwellings were not to be touched by Indian warriors. After the war was over, the Dennisons returned to their homes and found them intact. Although many of Black Hawk's warriors had passed the little settlement during the war, none had disturbed the log cabins with the Indian signs on them.

NEW BOSTON FOUNDED

With the close of the Black Hawk War, a conflict which brought about the permanent removal of the Indians from Illinois, there began an inrush of settlers into the Prairie State, most of them coming from New England and Atlantic seaboard areas. And with their arrival, many new towns and villages were laid out on rivers and roads of the prairie country.

First town to be platted in what is now Mercer County was New Boston. It was laid out, as we have seen, on land originally owned by the county's first settler, William Dennison. Just below it, near the mouth of the Edwards River, was the place called Upper Yellow Banks by the Indians and which was the site of the Indian council of war. It was here, too, that William Dennison operated his fueling station for the wood-burning steamboats on the Mississippi River.

It was in the spring of 1834 that New Boston was established by Elijah Iles, of Springfield, Illinois, and Edward Burrall, of Massachusetts. The latter is believed to have given the town its name and to have envisioned it as a "City of the West." When Mercer County obtained its first civil government in 1835, New Boston was designated county seat.

Today, New Boston is an old Mississippi River village of 767 population, its quiet streets shaded by trees and lined with trim white houses. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 17. At the edge of the village, overlooking the Mississippi, stands a tall grain elevator for use by farmers of the surrounding countryside.

SURVEYED BY ABRAHAM LINCOLN

When Elijah Iles, of Springfield, decided to lay out the town of New Boston in 1834 in association with Edward Burrall, he sought the services of a young, tall, New Salem surveyor named Abraham Lincoln. And thus it was that an immortal American platted Mercer County's oldest community, New Boston. In that same year Lincoln was elected to the Illinois state legislature for the first time. After serving as a captain in the Black Hawk War of 1832, Lincoln returned to New Salem, became a storekeeper, later a surveyor and then began the study of law. Other Illinois towns he surveyed are Petersburg, seat of Menard County, and Bath, once the seat of Mason County.

ARRIVAL OF WILLIAM DRURY

First of the Drury clan—a family which played an important part in the founding and development of Mercer County (the author of this book is not related to the family)—to arrive in the locality was William Drury, who was born and reared in Ohio. He came "west" to Illinois in 1834 and, that same year, settled in Mercer County after looking it over and declaring it was "God's country."

Soon after acquiring land in what is now New Boston Township, William Drury brought his brothers, Silas, Isaac, Edward and Courtney, into the region and it shortly became a Drury settlement. William afterwards induced other families to stake out claims in the vicinity. Among numerous friends of William Drury at this early period were the two Indian chiefs, Black Hawk and Keokuk.

Soon after the citizens of Mercer County elected their first public officials in 1835, William Drury was appointed an early county clerk. His brother, Isaac, was elected one of the county's first three commissioners, while still another brother, Silas, was elected first sheriff. In 1836 William Drury entered the mercantile business in New Boston with Levi Willits, a kinsman by marriage.

The firm of Drury & Willits remained in operation until 1848, when it was sold to Courtney Drury and James S. Thompson. Then, in 1871, William Drury became one of the founders of the Farmers' National Bank at Keithsburg. At a later period he established William and Ashti College in Aledo, so-called after his own and his wife's first names. The college has since been absorbed by Roosevelt Military Academy, which occupies five buildings on a twenty-two acre campus at the northwestern edge of Aledo.

COUNTY'S FIRST ELECTION

When the state legislature at Vandalia (then the capitol of Illinois) passed an act in 1835 for the civil organization of Mercer County, it ordered that an election of officers be held on April 6, 1835. On that day the citizens of the county voted at two polling places; one at the log cabin home of Dr. Eli Reynolds in New Boston and the other at the cabin home of George Miller in the eastern portion of the county.

After the polling places were closed and the votes counted, the following were found to have been elected Mercer's first county officers: Isaac Drury, Abraham Miller and Erastus Dennison, commissioners; Silas Drury, sheriff; and Edward Willits, coroner. Soon after the election, the county commissioners (then called a "County Court" instead of a "County Board") held their first official meeting and appointed William C. Townsend as county clerk, Ephriam Gilmore as county treasurer, and John Long as school commissioner.

GENERAL HUGH MERCER

Mercer County is one of the twenty-two counties in Illinois named after military heroes, most of whom were in the American Revolution. The county honors the name of General Hugh Mercer, who was mortally wounded at the Battle of Princeton in 1777. A native of Scotland, where he was born in either 1721 or 1725, Hugh Mercer was educated in medicine at Marischal College, University of Aberdeen, and afterwards served in the surgeon's corps of the Young Pretender's (Charles Edward Stuart) army.

About 1747, young Dr. Hugh Mercer crossed the Atlantic to America and thereafter became a practicing physician at Philadelphia and Mercersburg, Pennsylvania. With the outbreak of the French and Indian War in 1755, he joined the army and was present with Braddock at the unsuccessful attempt to take Fort Duquesne (now Pittsburgh). He later served as a lieutenant colonel under General Forbes when the latter finally captured Fort Duquesne in 1758.

Subsequently, Colonel Mercer moved to Fredericksburg, Virginia, and was a leader in political and military affairs of that state at the opening of the American Revolution in 1775. After being made a brigadier general of the 3d Virginia Regiment in 1776, Mercer later was placed in command of "The Flying Camp," as the militia operating in New Jersey was called. He was one of the commanders of the surprise attack on Trenton, December 26, 1776. At the Battle of Princeton in 1777, General Mercer was mortally wounded. A biography of the general was written in 1906 by John T. Goolick.

DENNISON'S FERRY

In addition to making appointments, the first commissioners of Mercer County, at their initial meeting in New Boston, transacted other business, including the issuance of a license to William Dennison, first settler of the county, to operate a ferry on the Mississippi River between the Illinois and Iowa shores. Dennison paid $4.00 for the license. He was then ordered to charge the following rates on his ferry: four-horse wagon, $1.50; man and horse, 50 cents; cattle, per head, 18 cents; sheep and hogs, per head, 6 cents; footman, each, 18 cents; and each yoke of work cattle, 50 cents.

ROAD COMMISSIONERS

One of the first, and one of the most important, subjects to be taken up by newly-organized counties in pioneer times was that of roads. At their first meeting, the commissioners of Mercer ordered that the county be divided into four road districts and appointed supervisors for each district. These supervisors were: Abraham Miller, District No. 1; Lewis Noble, District No. 2; Jesse Kester, District No. 3; and James H. Bane, District No. 4. Following his appointment, each supervisor began the work of repairing old roads and laying out new ones.

FIRST PERMANENT COUNTY SEAT

When civil government was first set up in Mercer County in 1835, the river village of New Boston was designated as temporary county seat. In the following year, the village of Millersburg was laid out by John Miller in association with his brothers, George, Abraham, Isaac and Philip. Then, in 1837, Millersburg was designated Mercer's first permanent county seat. This came about after John Miller and his wife donated a tract of land in their village to the county, from the sale of which the county could obtain funds to erect public buildings.

On moving to the new seat of justice, the Mercer County commissioners at first held their sessions in a two-story frame hotel built by Erastus Dennison, who also happened to be one of the commissioners. In the meantime, work was under way on the construction of Mercer County's first courthouse at Millersburg. Completed in 1839, this building was a two-story frame structure of simple architectural design. About the same time there was also completed the county's first jail, a sturdy building with an interior lining of three-inch oak planks.

SECOND COUNTY SEAT

In the same year that Millersburg became county seat (1837), an educated young Scotchman named Robert Keith arrived in Mercer County and laid out a village on the Mississippi named Keithsburg. The land on which the village was built originally belonged to John Vannatta, an early settler who, like William Dennison, operated a "wooding" station for river steamboats at this point.

In a few years time, Keithsburg became such a flourishing river town that her citizens soon were demanding the removal of the county seat from Millersburg to their community. When this matter was submitted to the electorate of the county in 1847, Keithsburg received a majority of the votes—namely, 396. And thus Keithsburg, in that same year, became Mercer County's second seat of justice. A substantial brick courthouse was built in Keithsburg soon afterwards, and this remained in use until Aledo became Mercer's third county seat in 1857. With this change, the old courthouse in Keithsburg was converted into an opera house.

ALEDO FOUNDED

When the Great Western Air Line—Mercer County's first railroad—was surveyed and started in the early 1850's, a number of towns were established along its right-of-way. Most important of these was Aledo, platted in 1855 by Levi Willits and John S. Thompson. It is to be recalled that Levi Willits was a partner of William Drury in the founding of one of the county's earliest mercantile stores, this having been located at New Boston.

At first Aledo was called De Soto, but when another town was found in Illinois bearing the same name it was changed to "Aledo." In 1857, after a popular vote on the matter, Aledo became the third county seat of Mercer, a title it holds to the present time. In later life, John S. Thompson, one of the founders of the town, attained prominence as a Circuit Court judge.

THIRD COUNTY SEAT

Due as much to a steadily increasing population as to the advantages of being on a railroad, Aledo rapidly forged ahead as a leading Mercer County town in the late 1850's. It was inevitable, therefore, that some of the energetic and influential citizens of Aledo soon were envisioning their town as a county seat. And so, once more, the voters of Mercer County were called upon to decide on a change of location for their county seat.

In the campaign to have the seat of justice removed from Keithsburg to their own community, the citizens of Aledo not only offered a sizable tract of ground to the county but stood ready to donate between $6,000 and $7,000 for the construction of a courthouse. One of the main points of their argument was that Aledo was more centrally located in the county than any other village or town in Mercer.

Finally, the matter was submitted to the voters. When the balloting was over, it was found that 1,479 citizens voted in favor of Aledo and 549 against the new town on the railroad. And thus, in 1857, Aledo became Mercer's third county seat—a position it holds to the present time. At first, the county commissioners met in a schoolhouse in Aledo. But a permanent courthouse soon was under construction, and, when completed, became a source of pride to both the citizens of Aledo and the county at large.

Today, Aledo is a prosperous town of 2,919 population. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on state highways 17 and 94. Among outstanding sights in Aledo are the ornate Mercer County Courthouse, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument and Roosevelt Military Academy.

PREDICAMENT OF LAWYER HARRIS

In donating funds for the construction of a county courthouse, the citizens of Aledo appear to have done so at the expense of other and much-needed local improvements. There was, for example, a delay in paving their streets and laying down sidewalks; a situation that made the business district of Aledo a veritable quagmire during the spring and fall rainy seasons.

As an illustration of how muddy Aledo could become in those early days, local history books tell the story of what happened to Charles M. Harris, a prominent attorney who afterwards became a leading member of the United States Congress. One day while in Aledo at a court session, Lawyer Harris, a big, unusually stout, man, somehow ventured too near the center of a downtown street and found he could not extricate himself from the thick, oozing mass of mud.

There followed numerous rescue attempts on the part of helpful Aledo citizens. But all of these failed. It was not until a horse-drawn wagon had been brought to the scene and backed as near as possible to the entrapped Mr. Harris that his rescue was finally achieved; dragged ingloriously out of the mudhole at the end of a long rope. But there seems to have been no repetition of such an incident in Aledo, for soon after the courthouse was built work was started on the improving of streets and sidewalks in the town.

THE CIVIL WAR

With the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861 and President Lincoln's immediate and urgent call for 75,000 volunteers, Mercer County responded quickly with more than its quota of men and money for the Union cause. There were many citizens in the county who remembered that President Lincoln, as a young man, had surveyed the townsite of New Boston, oldest community in the county. When the War Between the States came to an end in 1865, it was found that 357 men of Mercer County had lost their lives in the conflict.

In memory of these fallen men, a Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument was erected in Aledo in 1878. It was unveiled at a patriotic ceremony attended by several thousand citizens of the county and addressed by General John A. Logan, an outstanding Civil War commander and founder of Memorial Day in America. The monument, a stone shaft thirty-five feet high and surmounted by the figure of a Union soldier, still stands in North Park and is now one of the principal sights of Aledo.

ROOSEVELT MILITARY ACADEMY

Another leading sight of Aledo today is Roosevelt Military Academy. It is located at the northwestern edge of the city and occupies five buildings on a landscaped campus of twenty-two acres. The academy, an accredited institution with an average enrollment of more than 100 boys, was established several decades ago when it acquired the buildings and grounds of old William and Vashti College, which was founded late in the nineteenth century by William Drury and his wife Vashti, early settlers and prominent citizens of Mercer County.

ALEDO TIMES-RECORD

Principal newspaper of Mercer County today is the Aledo Times-Record. It is a weekly journal with a circulation of 4,628 and at present is published by J. Blazer Herschel and edited by Richard W. Judy. A Republican newspaper, the Aledo Times-Record was founded in 1857 as the Aledo Weekly Record. Its founders, James H. Reed and Horace Bigelow, were among the leaders of the movement to have Aledo designated county seat of Mercer.

TWO MERCER COUNTY ARTISTS

Two leading American women artists of today, Gertrude Abercrombie and Doris Lee, grew to maturity in Mercer County. The former's grandfather, Joseph Abercrombie, settled in the county nearly a century ago and was a pioneer harness-maker. His son, Thomas (father of the artist), became a well-known concert singer. Today, Gertrude Abercrombie, whose work has been exhibited in leading New York and Chicago galleries and museums, is acclaimed by critics as one of America's foremost abstract painters. In private life she is the wife of Paul Warren, author of Next Time Is For Life, a recent best-selling book. Doris Lee, who also has exhibited in leading New York and Chicago museums, is the former Doris Emmerich of Aledo and a descendant of early Mercer County settlers.

MERCER COUNTY TODAY

On the basis of latest United States census figures, Mercer County in 1950 had a total population of 17,374—which placed it 1,635th in population rank among the 3,103 counties of the United States. Its principal city and county seat, Aledo, had a population of 2,919—an increase of 12.6 per cent over the city's 1940 figure.

Occupying a land area of 556 square miles, the county's density of population was 31 inhabitants per square mile. Of the county's total population, 7,339 were classified as rural farm residents, 7,116 as rural non-farm residents (dwellers in towns, villages and country places), and 2,919 as urban residents (all of whom lived in Aledo city).

In 1950 there were 1,861 infants under five years of age in the county, 2,099 persons sixty-five years old and over, and the median age of the county was given as thirty-two years. More than 1,000 residents lived in a different county or abroad during 1949. The figures also showed there were 11,035 potential voters (persons twenty-one years old and over).

Under the heading of vital statistics, the 1950 census figures showed there were 364 births in that year, 201 deaths (including seventeen infants), and 130 marriages.

There were 4,740 families (two or more persons related by blood or marriage), and the median income of all of these families in 1949 was given as $2,718 (35.0 per cent had incomes of less than $2,000 while 14.0 per cent had incomes of $5,000 or more).

In the field of education, Mercer County had a total of 3,065 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years (school age). Of this total, 2,020 were between the ages of seven and thirteen years (primary school age), and 97.3 per cent of the latter were enrolled in primary schools. There were 835 young persons between the ages of fourteen and seventeen years (high school age), and 84.3 per cent of these were enrolled in high schools. Of all of the persons in the county who were twenty-five years old and over, it was found that the median number of school years they completed was 9.6. The figures also showed that 3.5 per cent of these completed less than five grades, while 35.9 completed primary and high school training. The institutional population of the county in 1950 (inmates of homes for delinquent or dependent children, mental hospitals, prisons, etc.) was 42.

Of the county's labor force, there were 12,693 persons fourteen years old and over (potential labor force). Of this total, 6,250 were actually employed (80.0 per cent of whom were males and 17.5 per cent females). The largest number, 2,417, were engaged in agriculture. Then came manufacturing, 912; wholesale and retail trade, 892; professional and related services, 473; construction, 275; transportation, communication and other public utilities, 272; finance, insurance and real estate, 86; and mining, 36. The labor figures were summed up by showing that 39.6 per cent of the total employed in Mercer County were engaged in agriculture, while 15.0 per cent were engaged in manufacturing.

With reference to housing, the census returns showed there were 5,621 dwelling units in the county in 1950 (in 1940 there were 5,368). The median number of rooms per unit was 5.8. More than 92 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures (including trailers), 8.2 per cent were built in 1940 or later, 40.0 per cent had hot running water and private toilet and bath. It was found further that the median number of persons per unit was 2.9, that 61.5 per cent were occupied by owners, that 52.2 per cent had central heating, that 85.0 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and that 97.9 per cent had radios. There were 3,450 non-farm dwelling units, and the median value of these was given as $4,609. In renter-occupied houses, the median gross monthly rental was given as $36.20.

In 1948, when the last United States business census was taken, there were 251 retail stores in the county, and these grossed a total of $13,531,000 in sales. Within this group were 50 food stores, which grossed $2,868,000 in sales, and 42 eating and drinking places, which grossed $681,000 in sales. The figures also showed there were 34 wholesale establishments, which grossed $14,554,000 in sales. As for manufacturing (most of which is done in Aledo city), there were 11 factories, and these produced goods, materials, etc., in the amount of $744,000.

As we have already noted, Mercer is a leading Illinois agricultural county. In 1950 it had a total of 1,769 farms, of which 1,597 were classified as commercial farms. More than 40 per cent of all farms were operated by tenants. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $31,982. In 1949, four years after the close of World War II, the value of all farm products sold (crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products) was $16,862,000. Total bank deposits (individuals, partnerships, corporations) in the county in 1950 amounted to $10,698,000.

CITY OF ALEDO

Principal city and county seat of Mercer is Aledo, which today has a total population of 2,919. It is located in the geographical center of the county on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on state highways 94 and 17. Serving the city is Mercer County Airport, four miles to the north. Aledo is the trading center of a rich agricultural region, especially noted for its beef and dairy cattle.

Among outstanding sights in the city are the Mercer County Courthouse, Roosevelt Military Academy, the Soldiers' and Sailors' Monument and the Mercer Township Free Public Library. It was in Aledo that two noted American women artists of today, Gertrude Abercrombie and Doris Lee, grew to maturity; both are descendants of early Mercer County settlers.

Aledo was platted in 1855 on the first railroad built through the county. Its founders were Judge John S. Thompson and Levi Willits. Two years after it was laid out Aledo became county seat, and it has retained this title to the present time. Aledo is the only community in Mercer Township, which has a total population of 3,583 (see chapter on Mercer Township).

SEATON

Near the southern edge of Mercer County, on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad, lies the incorporated village of Seaton, with a population of 285. A number of retail stores, service establishments and a postoffice form its business district and at the railside here rises a tall white grain elevator.

Seaton village was laid out in the 1870's on land originally owned by John Seaton, early settler of the area. He was the father of Duncan Seaton and John J. Seaton, both of whom became prominent in county affairs. This village is the principal community of Abington Township, with a population of 680. Among the first settlers of the township were Joseph Glancey, William T. Jackson, John W. Ditto, Frederick Frick and Thomas Greer, all of whom came in the early 1830's.

OGLE

Another community in Abington Township is the small hamlet of Ogle. It is located in the western part of the township on the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad. A few miles beyond Ogle lies the old Mississippi River town of Keithsburg.

MARSTON

On the northern border of Mercer County is situated the small hamlet of Marston, only community in Duncan Township. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Reynolds village. The township in which it is located has a population of 532. First settler of the township was Buford Duncan, who arrived about 1834 or 1836 and staked out a claim near Camp Creek. His son-in-law, James Vernon, came soon afterwards. A later settler, Luman Castle, found a rich deposit of coal here in 1845.

ELIZA

In the midst of a fertile farming area northwest of Aledo may be found the tree-shaded village of Eliza, with a population of thirty-two. It is served by the postoffice at nearby New Boston. The village was established in 1850 by Edwin Bishop, who earlier operated a blacksmith shop on the site. The township in which it is located, Eliza, has a present population of 667. First settler of the township was J. H. Witter, who came in 1833. Other early arrivals in the township were David Shaunce and Silas Drury, both of whom became prominent in Mercer County public affairs.

KEITHSBURG

Second largest city in Mercer County and at one time the county's seat of justice is Keithsburg, located on the Mississippi River. It has a present population of 1,006 and is served by the Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad. At the water's edge here rises a tall, white grain elevator with both rail and river connections. Keithsburg was platted in 1837 by Robert Keith, an educated Scotch immigrant, and at first was called Keith's Landing.

The city served as county seat of Mercer from 1847 to 1857, or until Aledo became county seat. It is the only community in Keithsburg Township, which has a total population of 1,141. First settler of the township was John Vannatta, who came in 1827 and conducted a fueling station here for early wood-burning steamboats on the Mississippi River.

MERCER TOWNSHIP
ALEDO

CITY OF ALEDO

Only community of Mercer Township is the city of Aledo, county seat of Mercer. For a detailed description of that community, see the opening chapter of this section "City of Aledo." The population of Mercer Township today is 3,523. The township was first settled by John and Abner Miller, who came in 1837. They built the first mill and the first schoolhouse in the township. Aledo was laid out in 1855 by Judge John S. Thompson and Levi Willits. It became the county seat of Mercer in 1857.

JOY

Largest community in Millersburg Township is the incorporated village of Joy, with a population of 505. Above its tree-shaded streets rise those two characteristic features of an Illinois village—a water tank and a grain elevator. The village is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 17.

The township in which it is situated, Millersburg, has a total population of 1,145. First settlers of the township, south of the Edwards River, were Harrison Riggs, Ebenezer Creswell and Edward Willits, all of whom came about 1834. First settler north of the river was Benijah Lloyd, who also arrived about 1834.

MILLERSBURG

When Mercer County was organized, Millersburg became its first county seat, a title it retained until Keithsburg became county seat in 1847. This village was platted in 1836 by John Miller, who was later joined by his brothers George, Abraham, Isaac and Philip. Today, Millersburg has a population of 100. It is located just north of the Edwards River and is served by the postoffice at nearby Aledo city.

NEW BOSTON TOWNSHIP

NEW BOSTON

MANNON

NEW BOSTON

Surveyed by Abraham Lincoln, the incorporated city of New Boston is Mercer County's oldest community, having been laid out in 1834 on land owned by William Dennison, first settler of the county. The city served as temporary county seat when civil government was first established in Mercer in 1835. It was at New Boston that William Drury, in association with Levi Willits, founded the county's first mercantile firm.

Today, New Boston city has a population of 767. It is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 17. The city has numerous retail stores, service establishments, a postoffice, banking facilities, and, on its riverfront, a tall commodious grain elevator with both rail and water connections. This city is the principal community of New Boston Township, with a total population of 1,388.

MANNON

Only other community in New Boston Township is the hamlet of Mannon, with a population of twenty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby New Boston. The hamlet is located adjacent to the Edwards River.

WARREN COUNTY

NORTH HENDERSON

In the southeast corner of the county lies the village of North Henderson, trading center of the farming community around it. The village has a population of 300 and is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad. North Henderson village was platted in 1871 by William H. and John T. Brown, sons of Allen S. Brown, early settler of the township in which it is situated. This township has a present population of 681. It was first settled by Govert Fleharty in the spring of 1833. North Henderson Township was organized in 1854.

ALEXIS

Principal community of Suez Township, on the south border of the county, is a portion of the incorporated village of Alexis, which lies mainly in adjoining Warren County. That part of it in Suez Township contains 248 inhabitants (its total population is 821). The village is located on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 135. The township in which a portion of the village is situated (Suez) has a total population of 819. First settlers of the township were David Williams and George Blake, who came in 1835 from Indiana.

PERRYTON TOWNSHIP

HAMLET

Principal community of Perryton Township, north of Aledo, is the small village of Hamlet. It is located on State 94 and is served by the postoffice as nearby Reynolds. The village was founded in 1868 and named after Hamlet Cooper, an early settler of the township in which it is located. This township, Perryton, was originally settled by Abraham Miller, who came in 1834 from Indiana. The township has a present population of 573.

REYNOLDS

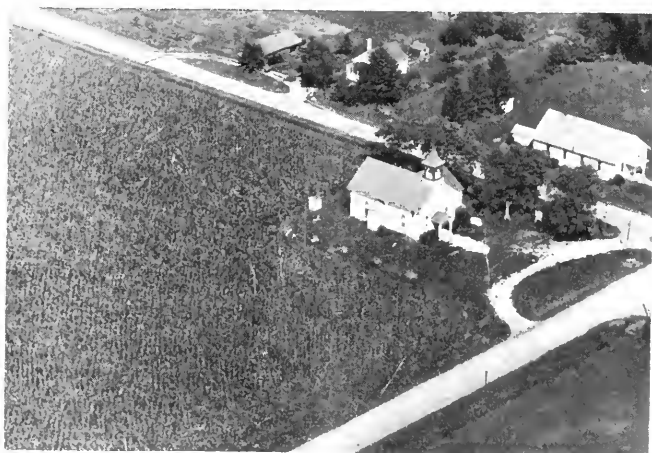

Also in Preemption Township is a portion of the village of Reynolds, which lies mainly in adjoining Rock Island County. That part of it in Preemption Township contains seventeen inhabitants.

GREENE TOWNSHIP

MATHERVILLE

With a population of 590, the incorporated village of Matherville serves as the principal trading center of the extensive farming community northeast of Aledo city. It is located near the Edwards River and State 67. The village has numerous retail stores, service establishments and a postoffice. It is the principal community of Preemption Township, which has a total population of 1,420. First settlers of the township were the John Farlow and Hopkins Boone families, who came in 1835. An early postoffice here was called Farlow's Grove.

BODEN

One more community in Preemption Township is Boden village, located east of Matherville on State 67. It has a population of 150. The village is served by the postoffice at nearby Reynolds.

PREEMPTION

Another community in Preemption Township is the village of Preemption. It has a population of 130. The village is located on State 67 near the north line of Mercer County.

SHERRARD

In the northeast corner of the county lies the thriving village of Sherrard, with a population of 484. It has numerous retail stores, automobile and other service establishments, as well as a postoffice and banking facilities. Sherrard is the principal community of Richland Grove Township, which has a total population of 1,280. First settlers of the township were the Arasmith brothers, Abner, Wesley and Alvin, and Thomas Sellers, all of whom arrived in 1834.

SWEDONA

Deriving its name from a number of early Swedish residents, Swedona at the present time has a population of sixty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Lynn Center. Swedona was platted in 1838 by Abner Arasmith and at first was called Berlin. It received its present name in 1869.

CABLE

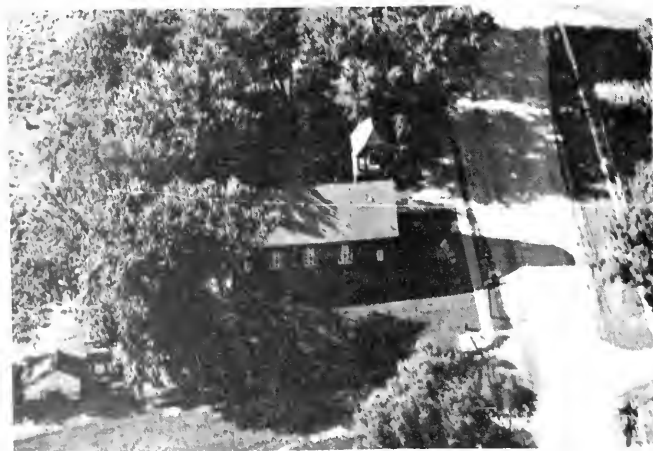

Another community in Richland Grove Township is the small village of Cable, with a population of thirty. It is served by the postoffice at nearby Sherrard. Cable was established more than seventy-five years ago as a mining town.

WINDSOR

On the eastern border of Mercer County may be found the incorporated village of Windsor (officially known as New Windsor). It has a population of 569 and is situated on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad and on State 17. In addition to numerous retail stores and service establishments, Windsor has a postoffice and banking facilities. At its railside are a tall grain elevator and rows of storage bins of the federal government's Credit Commodity Corporation. Windsor is the principal community of Rivoli Township, which has a total population of 1,078. First settler of the township was James Bridger, who came in the spring of 1836.

HOPEWELL

Only other community of Rivoli Township is the small hamlet of Hopewell. It is located in the center of the township on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad.

ILLINOIS STATE CAPITOL

THE ILLINOIS STATE FLAG

STATE FLAG OF ILLINOIS

ILLINOIS' STATE FLAG was officially adopted on July 6, 1915, after a vigorous campaign by Mrs. Ella Park Lawrence, State Regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Early in 1912, Mrs. Lawrence began visiting local D. A. R. chapters throughout Illinois seeking cooperation in promoting selection of an official State banner to place in the Continental Memorial Hall in Washington, D. C. In 1913, Mrs. Lawrence offered a prize of $25.00 to the Illinois D. A. R. chapter submitting the best design for the banner. She also wrote to members of the General Assembly seeking their cooperation.

Four judges were then selected to choose the winning design. Thirty-five designs were submitted and the Rockford Chapter entry was chosen as Illinois' future emblem.

State Senator Raymond D. Meeker introduced the bill which was to legalize the flag. After passage in the Senate it was pushed through the House of Representatives, despite an overcrowded calendar.

The measure automatically became a law July 6, 1915, when the Governor failed to affix his signature to the bill.

The first official flag, made in Washington, D. C., was three by five feet in size, of white silk. Flags were given by Mrs. Lawrence to Secretary of State; Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution in Illinois; National Society Daughters of the American Revolution (to hang in Memorial Continental Hall, Washington, D. C.); Rebecca Parke Chapter, Galesburg and the Illinois State Historical Society.

Visitors to Springfield cannot fail to notice the State Banner flanking the Stars and Stripes in the Rotunda at the State House. In the same juxtaposition it appears in the office of the Secretary of State. It is flown on ceremonial days by numerous patriotic bodies throughout the State. For officials and the public alike it stands as a reminder of our greatness as a State and our pride in our membership in the United States of America.

To estimate the number of plants required for an acre at any given distance, multiply the distance between the rows by the distance between the plants, which will give the number of square feet allotted to each plant and divide the number of square feet in an acre (43,560) by this number. The quotient will be the number of plants required.

GRAIN MEASURE.

To find the capacity of a Bin or Wagon-bed; multiply the cubic feet by 8 (tenths). For great accuracy, add ½ of a bushel for every 100 cubic feet.

To find the cubic ft., multiply the length, width and depth together.

Find the capacity of a Bin 4 ft. wide, 5 ft. deep, and 15 ft. long.

To get the exact answer 1 bu. is added for the 300 cubic ft.

$$4 \times 5 \times 15 = 300 \text{ cubic ft.}$$

Ans. 240.0 bus.

$$240 + 1 = 241 \text{ bus. exact ans.}$$

How many bus. will a Wagon-bed hold, 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide, 18 in. or 1½ ft. deep?

Ans. A Bed 10 ft. long, 3 ft. wide will hold 2 bu. for every in. in depth.

$$1 \frac{1}{2} \times 3 \times 10 = 45 \text{ cubic feet}$$

Ans. 36.0 bus.

EAR CORN MEASURE.

To find the contents of a Corn crib; multiply the cubic feet by 4 and divide the product by 9.

Find the contents of a Corn crib 18 ft. long, 7 ft. wide and 8 ft. high.

*NOTE—This allows 2½ cubic ft. for a bu. It is the rule most generally used, and will hold out in ordinary good corn, even if measured at the time it is cribbed.

$$7 \times 8 \times 18 = 1008 \text{ cubic feet}$$

$$\frac{1008}{4} = 252$$

$$\frac{252}{9} = 28$$

Ans. 448 bus.

TWO SIMPLE RULES FOR FINDING THE CAPACITY OF ROUND BINS, IN BUSHELS.

Where the dimensions measure exactly in feet; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .63.

Where the dimensions measure in inches; multiply the diameter by the diameter, multiply by the depth, multiply by .000365.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED ON THE FLOOR IN THE FORM OF A CONE.

Square the depth and square the slant height, in inches. Take their difference and multiply by the depth, in inches. Multiply this product by .00048. The result will be the contents, in bushels.

TO FIND THE QUANTITY OF GRAIN WHEN HEAPED AGAINST A STRAIGHT WALL.

Square one-half of the depth and proceed as in the previous rule.

"DON'TS" IN THE USE OF THE FLAG

The conference called at Washington in June, 1923, to draw up a code covering proper civil usage of the flag, adopted the following list of things to avoid:

1. Do not dip the flag of the United States to any person or any thing. The regimental color, State flag, organization or institutional flag, will render this honor. At sea the flag may be dipped in acknowledgment of the salute of the flag of another nation.
2. Do not display the flag of the United States with the Union down except as a signal of distress.
3. Do not place any other flag or pennant above or to the right of the flag.
4. Do not let the flag of the United States touch the ground or tail in the water.
5. Do not place any object or emblem of any kind on or above the flag of the United States.
6. Do not use the flag as drapery.
7. Do not fasten the flag in such manner as will permit it to be easily torn.
8. Do not drape the flag over the top or sides of a vehicle, train or boat.
9. Do not use the flag to drape over front of a platform or over chairs or benches.
10. Do not display the flag on a float in a parade except on a staff.
11. Do not use the flag as a ceiling covering.
12. Do not use the flag of the United States as a portion of a costume.
13. Do not put lettering upon the flag.
14. Do not use the flag in any advertising.
15. Do not use the flag in such a manner as to cause it to be soiled or damaged.

There are no statutory holidays in Mississippi, but by Common consent the Fourth of July, Thanksgiving and Christmas are observed. In New Mexico, Washington's Birthday, Decoration Day, Labor Day, Flag Day (June 14), and Arbor Day are holidays, when so designated by the Governor. In South Carolina, Thursday of Fair Week is a legal holiday.

Arbor Day is observed by the States on different days, usually in the Spring; in Georgia, in December. The dates in the same States often vary from year to year by proclamation.

Mother's Day is observed on the second Sunday in May.

Father's Day is observed on the third Sunday in June.

Saturday Afternoon is a holiday in many of the States and Cities and in the District of Columbia. Sundays are statutory holidays in Canada.

When a Legal Holiday falls on a Sunday, the following day is generally observed.

HANDY FACTS TO KNOW

To find diameter of a circle multiply circumference by .31831.

To find the circumference of a circle multiply diameter by 3.1416.

To find area of a circle multiply square of diameter by .7854.

To find surface of a ball multiply square of diameter by 3.1416.

To find side of an equal square multiply diameter by .8862.

To find cubic inches in a ball multiply cube of diameter by .5236.

Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.

Double riveting is from 16 to 20 per cent stronger than single.

One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 53 pounds.

One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from 47 to 50 pounds.

One ton of coal is equivalent to two cords of wood for steam purposes.

A gallon of water (U. S. Standard) weighs 8½ pounds and contains 231 cubic inches.

A cubic foot of water contains 7½ gallons, 1,728 cubic inches, and weighs 62½ pounds.

Each nominal horse power of a boiler requires 30 to 35 pounds of water per hour.

To sharpen dull files lay them in dilute sulphuric acid until they are eaten deep enough.

A horse power is equivalent to raising 33,000 pounds one foot per minute, or 550 pounds one foot per second.

The average consumption of coal for steam boilers is 12 pounds per hour for each square foot of grate surface.

To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water multiply the height of the column in feet by .434.

Steam rising from water at its boiling point (212 degrees) has a pressure equal to the atmosphere (14.7 pounds to the square inch).

To evaporate one cubic foot of water requires the consumption of 7½ pounds of ordinary coal, or about 1 pound of coal to 1 gallon of water.

RULES FOR COMPUTING INTEREST

The following is an approximate way to estimate the interest on any principal for any number of days. When the principal contains cents, mark off four places from the right of the result to express the interest in dollars and cents. When the principal contains dollars only, mark off two places.

2%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run, and divide by 180.

4%—Multiply the principal by the number of days to run and divide by 90.

5%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 72.

6%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 60.

7%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 52.

8%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 45.

9%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 40.

10%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 36.

12%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 30.

15%—Multiply by number of days and divide by 24.
